

To whom it may concern,

This is to voice my concern over an increase in broadcast service over Low Power FM signals. It is my understanding that LPFM may have a detrimental effect on FM translator service, such as the K-love Radio Network. I have been a supporter of the network for many years. The K-Love network has provided a vital service not only in my immediate area (Portland, OR), but also as my family travels around the country as well, namely, wholesome programming that is safe for all family members to hear. As you well know, it is not only the “shock radio” formats that are problematic for families trying to monitor profanity and sexually suggestive material that they would prefer their children were not subjected to; it is the mainstream stations that allow ads falling into that same category.

K-love is a refreshing “safe” zone that could very likely disappear if the proposed changes take place. K-love has a positive and encouraging impact on the families all across America and supports wholesome family values.

Please do not make changes that would just line the pockets of the mega-conglomerates that own all of the commercial radio stations, especially at the expense of vital community resources like K-Love.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Stephen J. Ziegler
